the nickel independent film festival

Founded in 2001, the Nickel Independent Film Festival is a celebration of independent filmmaking in Newfoundland and Labrador. We are named after the former Nickel theatre, Newfoundland's first cinema.

At our annual summer festival we strive to create an enthusiastic and creative atmosphere that leaves audiences and filmmakers feeling a strong connection to independent film culture in the province.

Throughout the year we offer screenings, educational programs, professional workshops, creative film challenges, and mentorship programs that bring us across the province. We are a charitable not-for-profit organization based in St John's.

Land Acknowledgement

Throughout the year the Nickel Independent Film Festival hosts events and programming across Newfoundland and Labrador, and online. Wherever you connect with us, we encourage you to take a moment to acknowledge the Indigenous peoples of the land you are on.

This year's festival will be held in St. John's, which is home to a rich, diverse, and vibrant urban Indigenous community. Located on the ancestral and unceded territory of the Beothuk, the lands and waters in and around St. John's also traditionally served as a gathering place for the Mi'kmaq.

The broader region of Newfoundland and Labrador continues to be home to diverse Indigenous Peoples, including First Nations, Inuit, and Métis.

As a festival dedicated to the power of storytelling, we recognize our responsibility to support Indigenous voices in film and to ensure Indigenous stories are told with authenticity and respect.

We recognize this is an ongoing dialogue; we are grateful to live and work on this land with all people, those Indigenous to this place and those from all over the world.

GREETINGS

WELCOME TO THE 25TH ANNUAL NICKEL INDEPENDENT FILM FESTIVAL

The genuine honour of extending this greeting to you has been accorded to me on this milestone occasion, due to an initial invitation to play a supporting role in the very first Nickel. To my continued surprise and honour I have been recast every year since, tasked with sorting through the numerous submissions to the festival, and helping craft the final line-up. In 2005, when it became clear that mine was to be a recurring role, the Board of Directors asked me to join their ranks, usually chairing what is now called the Programming Committee. Frankly, as I reflect on those many years, I still don't know what to make of it all.

TIM CONWAY

NICKEL BOARD MEMBER AND PROGRAMMING
COMMITTEE CHAIR

There's a nagging dissection of the fictional Mr. Gump's box of chocolates analogy that's bouncing around my head, but it's way too lengthy to get into here. Unfortunately, so is the list of people, films and moments deserving of acknowledgement and thanks. What I can say, however, is that if I look back on where I'd be if I hadn't accepted that initial invitation, it leads me to what I think is a more important consideration. I firmly believe that none of my innumerable roads not taken along the way would have made me who I am, right here, right now. To clarify, I was hardly a rogue to begin with, nor did I get anywhere close to the short list for the papacy, either. Still, I think that regularly encountering so many diverse perspectives brought by countless films from people and places around the globe, I've grown into a better human being than I would have otherwise. I feel truly blessed, am endlessly grateful for the opportunity, and I sincerely hope that you find yourself rewarded, in some little way, by your Nickel experience.

If this is your first visit with us, we hope that you find that while we are a regional film festival, devoted to showcasing local productions, our primary concern is that you have a grand night out. And if you're a repeat guest, welcome back. It's great to have you again.

This year is one of many happy returns here at the Nickel, as most of our local films, and a few of those from outside the province, are works from folk who have screened with us previously. Our three feature films arrive courtesy of festival alumni. Kenneth J. Harvey returns with another engaging documentary film, The Bear Inside a Whale; our own Devin Shears, renowned during the pandemic for his on-line Nickel interviews from within his mountain chalet, comes home with his endearing Cherub; and Nik Sexton's back with his deadly motion picture, Skeet.

After a brief hiatus, longtime contributor, CNA's Animation Program's Graduating Class are once again mining chuckles, this time with Fistful of Water. Ian Foster turns his hand to satire this year, with Hang in There!, surprisingly shot on a phone, while on the other end of the technical spectrum, Stephen L. Bonnell's 16mm journey brings us his most avant-garde work to date, Change in Time. Roger Gallant's time-lapse motion picture, Abstract Skies, is an engaging follow-up to his offering last year, and Shan Leigh Pomeroy delivers yet another playful stop-motion creation, Transmission.

Elizabeth Hicks further explores the tumult of adolescence in I Need to Get This off My Chest, while Stacey Gardner's 73 Seconds, adapted from one of her poems, offers another take on this critical point in life. Bridgett A. Ricketts and Michelle Clements, on the other hand, present us with the challenge of parents whose adult children refuse to grow up, with their mock documentary, This Hour Has 5 Minutes. Prolific Vaida Nairn has also chosen to co-direct, here with Daniel Griffin, an intimate portrait of a local performance artist in Above Above, Below Below. Nicola Hawkins, however, wrangles a more populated cast, boatloads of sheep, in her Ba Baa Shangri La.

Stephen Cadigan doesn't just give us another incarnation of Berries for Sale, but our very first local superhero film, Northerner. Arriving as we screen our 20th horror show screening, it gives us the perfect opportunity to expand our after dark line-up with an action/thriller screening, and thanks to Nickel newcomer Alexa Jane Jerrett's otherworldly Bedlamer, we've also added a show of mystical/supernatural films. Serendipity indeed.

We have high hopes for other future alumni. Duncan Major's heartfelt animated film, Imprint, is sure to leave a lasting impression, and Ryan Patrick McDonald's surreal Elapse is a solid component of our horror

I think that regularly encountering so many diverse perspectives brought by countless films from people and places around the globe, I've grown into a better human being than I would have otherwise.

I feel truly blessed, am endlessly grateful for the opportunity, and I sincerely hope that you find yourself rewarded, in some little way, by your Nickel experience.

show on Thursday. Stephen Coombs, regularly seen on screen in film challenge entries, steps behind the camera to bring us Kneaded, and a whole crew of film challenge participants have struck out on their own to produce Any Mummies 'Lowed In??.

And before your thoughts go to "what else could I want, jam on it?" we have that too. Not only do we have a big box of cinematic confections from across the country and around the globe, but after all this and our closing night party on Saturday, we've jammed in a science fiction film challenge screening on Sunday.

Still, we might have forgotten something in our celebratory exuberance while preparing to launch The Nickel's 25th season. The one thing that has remained foremost in our sights, however, is the reason why the festival came to being in the first place: you, the viewer. What's the value of a film, local or otherwise, if no one sees it as it's meant to be, projected onto a big screen? Thank you so much for stepping into this vital role of the process. Whether you're a current or (fingers crossed) future Nickel audience alumnus, we are so very grateful that you've chosen to join us to share in a little bit of movie magic. Enjoy.

On behalf of PictureNL, it is my great pleasure to extend heartfelt congratulations to the Nickel Independent Film Festival on the incredible occasion of its 25th anniversary. A quarter of a century of showcasing independent cinema in Newfoundland and Labrador is a remarkable milestone—one that speaks volumes about the passion, persistence, and creativity of this festival's team and its unwavering community of filmmakers, volunteers, and audiences.

The Nickel has always been a place where bold storytelling finds its voice.

What began as a small grassroots initiative has grown into one of the province's most vital and enduring celebrations of independent film. Over the past 25 years, this festival has not only highlighted the work of local filmmakers but has also created an inclusive space for national and international voices to be heard—sparking conversations, challenging perspectives, and inspiring both emerging and established artists.

For PictureNL, the Nickel represents more than a film festival—it's a cornerstone of the province's creative ecosystem. It provides a nurturing platform where new talent can take their first steps and where seasoned artists can share their latest work. The festival's commitment to accessibility, diversity, and mentorship has helped build a generation of filmmakers who are telling distinctly Newfoundland and Labrador stories with global resonance.

As CEO of PictureNL (and former employee of the Nickel), I am especially proud of the strong and collaborative relationship between our two organizations. We share the belief that film and television are powerful tools for cultural expression and economic growth. Events like this play a crucial role in developing our industry by offering professional development, celebrating local achievements, and fostering connections among creators, funders, and audiences.

This year's festival promises to be one of its most exciting yet, with a dynamic lineup of screenings, workshops, panels, and events that reflect the innovation and diversity of today's independent film scene. Whether you're a filmmaker, an industry professional, or simply a lover of cinema, the Nickel offers something for everyone.

To the dedicated organizers, programmers, volunteers, and supporters of the Nickel—thank you. Your tireless efforts have helped grow this festival into a cultural institution. And to the filmmakers: congratulations on your work. Your creativity and courage are what make the Nickel such a vital and beloved part of Newfoundland and Labrador's cultural landscape.

For PictureNL, the Nickel represents more than a film festival—it's a cornerstone of the province's creative ecosystem. It provides a nurturing platform where new talent can take their first steps and where seasoned artists can share their latest work.

As we celebrate this 25-year milestone, let's also look forward to the next 25 years of bold storytelling, industry connection, and creative growth. PictureNL is proud to support your journey, and we can't wait to see where it leads.

Enjoy the festival!

Told almost entirely without dialogue, this meditative character study follows Benjamin Turnbull as Harvey, a straight, fat man who discovers an opportunity to build new confidence in himself and his body when he learns about the chub subculture in the LGBTQ community and decides to submit a photograph of himself to a magazine's "Cherub of the Month" contest. This is Newfoundland and Labrador director Devin Shears' first feature as his Master's thesis in the Film Studies program at York University. Made with a budget of just $10,000, the film premiered at the 2024 Vancouver International Film Festival, was screened in the National Competition at the 2024 Festival du nouveau cinéma, and has been garnering glowing reviews at screenings worldwide.

IMPRINT

DIRECTOR: DUNCAN MAJOR • NL • 5 MINUTES

Like ink on paper, chance encounters can leave a lasting imprint. At 13, Duncan Major met artist Tara Bryan and discovered a shared passion for letterpress printing that continues to shape his life and work as a St. John's artist, poet, and designer. In Tara's memory, Duncan created Imprint, a poetic animated film that serves as a heartfelt tribute to his mentor. Using the letterpress and craft material she passed down to him, Imprint brings hand-printed art to life with vibrant animation, evocative imagery and a beautifully designed soundscape. A beautifully animated celebration of how the relationships we build echo outward and endure across time.

DEAR DAD

DIRECTOR: BURTON ROCKS • USA • 10 MINUTES

In this sweet, poignant and tender film, 91 year old Dr. Lawrence Rocks writes a letter to his deceased father as a way of explaining to his own son that memories are more important than objects. A testament to the love between a father and son across generations.

73 SECONDS

DIRECTOR: STACY GARDNER • NL • 9 MINUTES

It's 1986 and 7 grade student Shannon Crane means to be bound for a future she cannot know on a day filled with possibility and hope. Shannon reckons with the ordinary calamity of being herself after an incident of being bullied and the extraordinary catastrophic event of the Space Challenger disaster. A coming of age story by emerging St. John's filmmaker Stacy Gardner.

PARIS 70

DIRECTOR: DANI FEIXAS • SPAIN • 14 MINUTES

Inexperienced caregiver Jan resorts to white lies in order to ease his mother's suffering, and embarks on an emotional journey through family memories. Paris 70 is a touching family love story between a son and his mother with dementia.

SNOWBIRD

DIRECTOR: PATRICK CURRAN • USA • 25 MINUTES

A self-taught rocket scientist invites a big city journalist out into the desert to cover a launch that will prove, once and for all, that the Earth is flat. A film about the pitfalls of how we communicate unpopular ideas with each other in an ever-polarizing world.

DIRECTOR: KENNETH J HARVEY • NL • 80 MINUTES

Stan Hill Jr. is a Haudenosaunee artist living in Miawpukek First Nation Reserve, Conne River, Newfoundland. In The Bear Inside a Whale, he and his family discuss racism, identity, religion, creation and art, along with the cultural extinction of the Beothuk of Newfoundland. Throughout the film, we follow Stan carving a bear out of a whale vertebra. And we visit The Rooms (museum) in St. John's, Newfoundland, where Stan talks about viewing and reclaiming Indigenous artefacts.

WITH SHORT FILM FREEDOM

DIRECTOR: SCOTT JONES • ONTARIO • 5 MINUTES

Where does freedom live? If some assert their right to gather en masse but then block sidewalks and others can't pass, whose freedom is that? Do our freedoms have a meeting place? Does it have to be a battleground? In this poetic animated short, a paraplegic man trapped in his Ottawa apartment during the Freedom Convoy protests reflects on the concept of freedom, querying ableist underpinnings.

FEATURE • Q&A WITH DIRECTOR NIK SEXTON TO FOLLOW

PRESENTED BY CBC NL

DIRECTOR: NIK SEXTON • NL • 102 MINUTES

After his release from prison, Billy Skinner returns to his St. John's neighbourhood to discover a transformed community—what was once a predominantly white working-class area is now home to Syrian refugee families. As Billy navigates his reintegration into society, he must confront not only his own demons and addiction struggles but also the evolving cultural landscape of his hometown. He forms an unlikely friendship with Mohamed, a Syrian refugee who is also learning to rebuild his life in unfamiliar surroundings.

Director Nik Sexton delivers unflinching social realism in this feature, exploring themes of displacement, belonging, and redemption against St. John's stark and beautiful backdrop. Shot in black and white, Skeet examines the universal experience of feeling like an outsider—whether you're an ex-convict trying to rebuild your life or a refugee family starting over in an unfamiliar place.

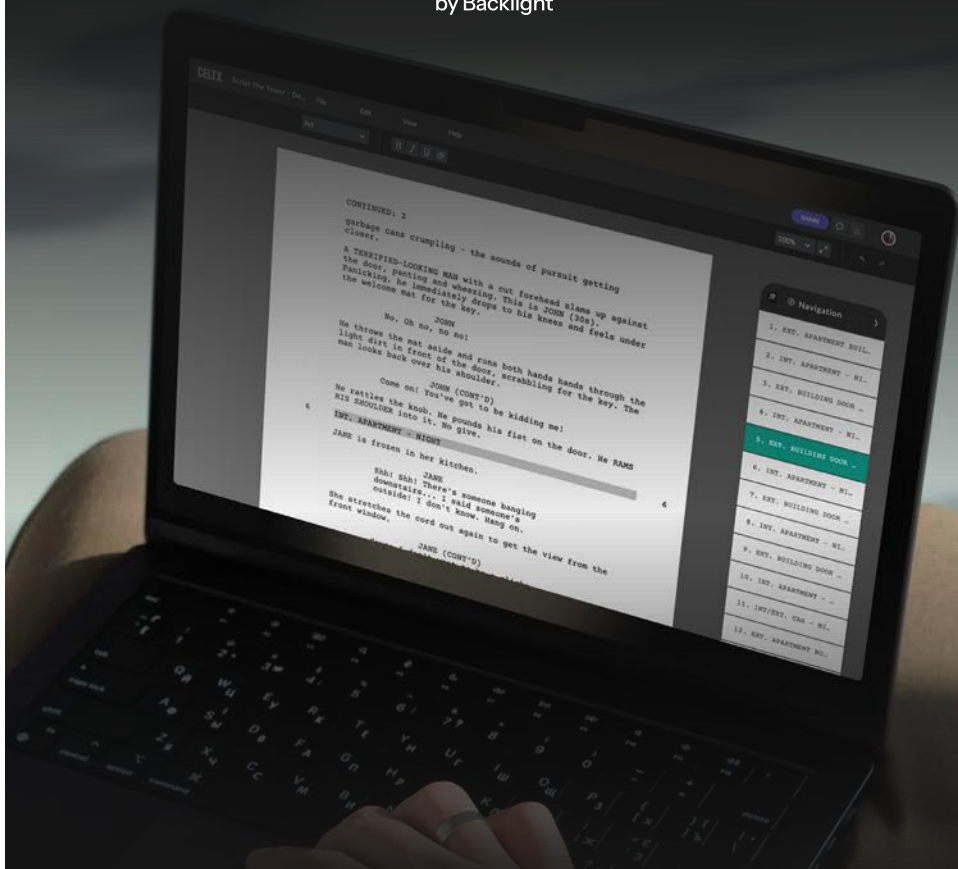

Raw and authentic in its portrayal of contemporary life in the city, the film tackles the province's ongoing addiction crisis while weaving a story about human connection that transcends cultural boundaries.
